Election/Restriction

Applicant's election of species B (Figs. 3 and 4) is acknowledged. Claims 18, 20, 22, 23, 25 and 27 read on the elected species. Accordingly, claims 19, 21, 24, 26 and 28-33 are withdrawn. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claim Objections

Claims 23 and 25 are objected to because of the following informalities: there is no antecedent basis for "the square portion of said carriage bolt" because a carriage bolt does not necessarily have to have a square portion. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 23 is indefinite because both "a cross-hole" and "a retainer" are double inclusions because claim 23 has perviously set forth those limitations. It appears that maybe the dependency of claim 23 is incorrect.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 18 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sachs (US Des 341,127). Sachs shows a bolt having a head at one end, a threaded shank at an opposite end with a non-round portion between the head and shank and a cross-section

Claims 22 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by MacLean (US 2,395,377). As seen in Fig. 4, MacLean discloses, in combination, a bolt (10), a retainer (20) and a rail member (17). The bolt having a head (13) and a square section (15) received in a complementary shaped hole (18) in the rail member and the retainer installed onto the bolt adjacent the square section to retain the bolt in the hole.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 20, 23 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over MacLean as applied to claims 22 and 25 above and further in view of Emerson (US

Art Unit: 3677

2,370,944). MacLean discloses the retainer being a nut type but, does not disclose the retainer being a cotter key. Emerson discloses a bolt (16) held in securement with a rail member (25) by a retainer formed as a cotter key received through a cross-hole (21) in the bolt. At the time the invention was made, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to replace the nut type retainer of MacLean with a cotter key as disclosed in Emerson because the cotter key would be more economical. Indeed, a cotter key is less costly than a nut not to mention the cost associated with the separate threads having to be rolled onto the bolt. Once the combination was made, the cotter key and cross hole would be located adjacent the square portion of the nut.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
